

What does the Good Decisions™ Career Coach Training program offer?

First, you get a comprehensive training manual, in colour, with bibliography and accompanying handouts, audios and DVDs.

This program assumes you have completed courses in both NLP and Meta-Coaching and have used some of the change techniques they covered. Here we build on that knowledge and experience.

- > In module 1 you learn about the field of career coaching in general and NLP-based career coaching in particular.
- > In the module 2 you learn how to generate career options for your clients based on their client's skills and interests. You also practise presenting these options to clients and coaching them in their next steps.
- > In module 3 you learn (or review) a range of processes and techniques that help you to address clients' issues such as feeling unmotivated, fearful, 'stuck', negative, resistant etc.
- > The tasks in module 4 enable you to skill and resource your clients to market themselves and take career action steps with motivation and confidence. You learn about writing resumes and job interview skilling.
- > In module 5 you will get tips, training and resources that will lead you to successfully running your own career coaching business. In particular you learn how to sell your career coaching services.

The training fee covers

The comprehensive training manual of 227 pages

6 DVDS and some audio clips

20 hours with Susie (by phone) benefiting from her 20 years of experience in NLP and career coaching

31 Coach Resource materials

28 Client Handouts to reproduce with acknowledgement

The Good Decisions Job Titles Booklet

10 copies each of three value-adding career development books to give to your clients.

When you have completed the learning requirements and an oral assessment, you will have gained the credential of Good Decisions™ Career Coach. When you have also completed the MCF Meta-Coach training pathway and have the ACMC credential, you will get a second credential, that of Certified Careers Meta-Coach. The Good Decisions™ Career Coach Certification is the only career coaching qualification that gives you eligibility for the Certified Careers Meta-Coach credential with the Meta-Coach Foundation.

On commencing the Good Decisions™ training program you will be asked to sign a one-page agreement regarding copyright and use of materials. On completion of the training you will be entitled to use the Good Decisions™ coaching methodology and materials with your clients.
